Weather

By

C. W. (COLD WATER) MILLER

Through Christmas holidays, according to the moon, lots of rain and very cold. Well, I gracious, I can always tell when it is turning cold, by the boys gathering around the boiler room and Mr. Eakes going around drawn up in his overcoat. Then, too, Mr. Eakes says that his rheumatiz aches begins coming on just before rainy, cold weather. And another thing, just as sure as cold, rainy weather starts, Mr. Eubank starts letting too much air in his room. Yes, sir, I know the weather's gonna soon be tourdy bad 'cause that little dickens had three winbaws lowered at least a foot from the top toe other day when I went by.
